The Mei Zen Cosmetic Acupuncture System™ is a cosmetic procedure that is healthy, rejuvenating and revitalizing. It is based on time tested principles of Traditional Chinese Medicine.

Since a person's face is affected by the internal organs, the cosmetic acupuncture treatment is given only after a health assessment is taken and the imbalances inside the body are addressed.

The needling increases the flow of Qi and Blood to the face, enhance the muscle tone, and production of collagen and elastin; the process of aging is reversed while you look like yourself. It is not a facelift.

The Mei Zen Cosmetic Acupuncture System™ was featured in the New York Times, December 13, 2007.
